GOD'S WORLD is the theme of the Vacation Bible School now in session at the First Christian Church. In conjunction with the theme, students attending the school visited Deer Valley Farm Tuesday. Pictured here are members of the pre-school and kindergarten classes, preparing to leave for the farm.

OLDER CHILDREN attending the school also toured Deer Valley Farm. Mrs. Bernard Purdy, director of the Bible School at First Christian Church, says that the approximately 75 children participating have been "enthusiastic about the program of Christian education." The youngsters range in age from four to students of sixth grade.

Blaiberg better, Barnard worried

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Surgeon Christiaan Barnard today flew back to Cape Town where Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, lay in a sterile ward suffering from a liver "dysfunction."

"I am very worried," the doctor said as he left London. But Barnard, who led the medical team that gave Blaiberg a new heart five months and 10 days ago, said the condition of the retired Cape Town dentist was "not critical."

At Groote Schuur Hospital, where Barnard and his colleagues performed the world's first heart transplant last December, Blaiberg, 59, was kept under constant watch. He suffered a relapse Tuesday. After talking with the Groote Schuur staff by telephone from London, Barnard described the ailment as hepatitis, a liver inflammation, and said it could have been caused by drugs or blood the patient had been given.

"I am disappointed about this," Barnard said. "But I think there is still very good hope for Mr. Blaiberg."

A hospital bulletin issued late Tuesday said Blaiberg's condition was unchanged and there had been no further deterioration in his condition.

Britain's first heart transplant patient, businessman Frederick West, 45, remained seriously ill in London's National Heart Hospital. West, who received his new heart May 3, fought against a chest infection and poorly functioning kidneys which led doctors to connect him to an artificial kidney machine. Blaiberg and West are among six surviving heart transplant patients. There have been 21 of the operations.

Blaiberg, who received the heart of stroke victim Clive Haupt, 24, Jan. 2, was being treated by a liver specialist. Hospital sources said his anti-rejection drug treatments were stepped up last week when there were signs the heart was being rejected by his body.

The patient had been released from the hospital March 16. The cheerful dentist had driven his car, eaten heartily and tossed a ball around with the touring British Lions rugby team.

Poor list early goals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Poor people's campaign leaders today issued five "immediate" demands they said must be granted by the government before residents of Resurrection City can begin to consider their campaign victorious and think about returning home.

The seven-page statement of limited goals called for expanded and lower cost food aid to the needy, increased participation by the poor in federal antipoverty policy and repeal of controversial welfare restrictions Congress adopted last year.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, leader of the campaign, said the poor would present their demands to the individual federal agencies involved before June 19, the day thousands of persons have been invited to the nation's capital to march in support of the six-week-old campaign.

Abernathy said 90 per cent of the new demands would not need legislation and could be granted under administrative or policy changes in programs of the agencies. He said an urgent need for food in many parts of the nation would lead the marchers first to the Department of Agriculture.

March officials are demanding that the Agriculture Department establish some form of food aid for residents of all 1,000 of the nation's poorest counties. They have asked the department to issue free food stamps to no-income or extremely low-income families.

Back to farm

Forrest Edwards Jr., 19, Elkhart, changed his plea to guilty Tuesday in Putnam Circuit Court on a charge of escape from the Indiana State Farm. The charge had originally been scheduled to go into jury trial Thursday.

Judge Francis N. Hamilton ordered Edwards to finish his farm term and levied a 1-5 year reformatory sentence on the escape charge. A 2-5 year reformatory term was suspended on conditions set by the court.

Atlanta convicts agree to surrender hostages

By RABUN MATTHEWS ATLANTA (UPI) — Four armed convicts, holed up with 21 hostages in an office of the Atlanta Federal Prison while other inmates screamed and shattered windows, agreed today to surrender upon publication of their grievances.

The grievances were published in a copyrighted story by the Atlanta Journal at mid-morning and the hostages—16 men and five women—were expected to be released shortly. Their ordeal had lasted more than 26 hours.

The convicts—a murderer and three robbers—grabbed 25 hostages in a daring escape attempt Tuesday morning. It was foiled in a gunfight—in which a guard was slightly wounded—and they barricaded themselves in the administration building. They said they were "willing to die" to bring to light faults in the prison system.

Two women were released when they became ill Tuesday; another hostage was freed late Tuesday night to bring the list of nine grievances to officials, and a fourth was freed this morning.

The Journal's story, written by reporters William B. Williams and David Norden, said Warden Olin Blackwell had agreed to meet all but one of the convicts' nine demands.

Williams was rushed to the prison Tuesday when the convicts demanded to talk to him. He discussed the grievances with the convicts over an intercom to their stronghold.

The convicts demanded better food, social workers, that the press be allowed to tour the prison occasionally, a promise that no other inmates would be retaliated against, and that the four themselves would not be prosecuted.

Two of the convicts demanded transfers to other prisons and guarantees that their visiting privileges not be revoked.

"The four of us also want assurance, spoken publicly, that none of us will be taken to the associate warden's building and beaten by Captain Bradley, Lieutenant Welch or any other members of the so-called 'goon squad.'"

Blackwell told the Journal he had no authority to prevent prosecution.

The prisoners also demanded that "someone from Washington" look into the case of Robert Gorman, one of the bank robbers. They said his 30-year sentence without chance of parole was "sadistic."

An outbreak of whistling, yelling and window-breaking erupted as the ordeal at the bleak prison passed the 24-hour mark.

An Editorial

There are at least two times in the career of a political figure when his image transcends all things political and rises, for a moment, to a position of glory outside the cold glare of history and away from the maddening crowd.

The first, and last, is the time of his death, and the second, and most gratifying of course, is when he commands the adulation of the young, the innocent, the children. Not all are able to experience the second.

In death, even an active and candid politician with as many enemies as friends will be graced with the charity of his most outspoken critics. In life, those children whom he may for one reason or another captivate will worship him as their hero.

When it happens that death comes suddenly and horribly in the path of an assassin's bullet, just as the man reaches the peak of his appeal to innocent youth, then the effects of the catastrophe produce some quite tender and touching sentiments among those endeared children.

There was a nine-year-old girl in Greencastle last week, for instance, who adored Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. She watched the results of the California Primary Election with glee, benignly believing that Bobby Kennedy would emerge, as hopeful Kennedy backers had predicted, the clear choice for the Democratic Presidential nomination and would follow with an easy November election victory and stride up the steps of the White House unopposed.

She awoke to hear of the shooting of the Senator, and stayed glued to the television all day Wednesday, listening for the latest reports on his condition. She poured over newspaper accounts. She was worried, but optimistic.

She made her mother promise to wake her early Thursday, so she could learn how Kennedy was.

Her mother woke her early, just as she'd said she would. But she had to tell her daughter that Bobby Kennedy was gone. It wasn't the easiest thing she'd ever had to tell her little girl.

"She was just nuts about Sen. Kennedy," the mother said, "you can't imagine."

The girl took the news calmly, and went into her room. Much later, she emerged with a story of the assassination she'd extracted from her distraught young mind and written down on paper.

It was a surprisingly accurate and detailed account of the Kennedy presence in California, the primary victory celebration, the assassination and the aftermath... for a nine-year-old girl.

She gave the account to her mother, turned, and walked back toward her room.

"I guess I just won't vote for anybody, now," the little girl said over her shoulder, and walked on, her wide eyes wet.

Her mother phoned The Banner and asked if the girl's story itself might be useful. She said she'd bring it into the office, but she must have had second thoughts. We don't even have her name—BH.

Ask registration of all firearms

By DANIEL RAPOPORT WASHINGTON (UPI)—Members of Congress—possibly including a key House Republican—have gone President Johnson one better and are pushing for gun control legislation that would mean nationwide registration of firearms.

Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., said today he had "tentatively" concluded that registration is a necessity. Anderson, a senior member of the Rules Committee, was influential in winning House approval of an open housing law earlier this year and the omnibus crime bill last week.

"For the life of me, I can't understand those who claim we'll bring about a fascist state with registration," Anderson said in an interview. "I think that's absurd. We register automobiles and no one objects."

Asks Editors' Support Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., meantime wrote 343 editors around the country urging a nationwide drive for "a good control law," which he said meant registering and licensing owners of firearms.

Gun control advocates had considered registration an all but impossible measure to get through Congress, but the climate has changed since the fatal shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last week.

Johnson asked originally for a ban on mail order sales of all firearms. He renewed his plea following the Kennedy tragedy and the final passage of control legislation last week that would ban only the mail order sale of handguns—not rifles or shotguns. It was contained in an omnibus crime bill he still has not signed.

The House rejected Tuesday moves to attach stiffer gun control measures to a money bill for assorted federal agencies.

Earlier, the House Judiciary Committee in a tie vote refused to endorse Johnson's call for a ban on mail order sales of all weapons and ammunition.

Predicts Reversal But Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., predicted the committee would reverse itself at its next meeting June 20.

The same bill was sent to two Senate committees with instructions from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield—not a supporter of the measure—for prompt hearings so it could be ready "for debate and disposal before the end of the session."

Although lawmakers are beginning to receive some mail backing the new proposals, the flood of letters sponsors had hoped for has not materialized.

In view of opposition from such influential figures as Mansfield and Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, prospects for additional gun controls this year appeared dim.

GHS senior tours Europe

Martha Whitaker will embark Monday on a journey that will take her to Europe to study and observe the forms of government and the methods of schooling.

Martha will be one of 12 students from Indiana making the "study trip," sponsored by the Student Council Institute of Indiana University.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Whitaker, 602 East Washington, Martha will be a senior at Greencastle High School in the autumn. She was recommended for the trip by the Indiana Student Council Leadership Institute.

It all began when Martha attended a leadership training school at Indiana University last summer, after being chosen by her school to attend as Greencastle's representative.

The counselors of that school made the recommendation for the study trip, billed as the first of its kind.

The journey will take Martha and the eleven other Indiana students to such lands as Germany, France, Italy, Austria and England. There they will visit classes in both private and public schools. They will chat with students and teachers of the schools, both at home and in the school. And they will meet and talk with many dignitaries.

And of course, sight-seeing will also be included as the students strive for a better understanding of the lands.

Martha has not studied foreign languages. But her high school activities have helped prepare her for the journey. She is a member of the Future Teachers of America, Girls Athletic Association, Latin Club, Art Club, Pep Club and Y-Teens.

In addition, she has served her fellow students as a member of the Student Council. She is a member of the National Honor Society and plays bassoon in the Greencastle High School band.

Martha is an active "Thespians" at the high school and works on-stage and off-stage with the Little Theatre. Much of the work she has contributed to high school theatrical productions and Little Theatre presentations revolve, around art; painting stage settings, posters, etc.

After graduation next spring, Martha hopes to enroll in a college and study art.

Five teachers will accompany the students as they tour Europe. The advisors are Dr. and Mrs. John Miller, Father Edward Whyte, all of Bloomington, Mrs.

Ann Diggins, Kendallville, and George Tricolas, Fort Wayne. Martha Whitaker and the eleven other students from Indiana will return to the United States July 8. They will bring with them a greater understanding of their world.

Construction work on schools and public and commercial buildings has been halted over a wide area during the strike.

hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE:

A good travel outfit for a little girl is one with a large collar.

I make the dress and collar separate and the collar reversible. I choose a plaid or print for the dress so it doesn't show soil as readily and decorate the collar on both sides.

Just before arriving at our destination, I remove the collar, turn it over to the clean side and button it back on. Each of my girls then looks very clean and neat.

Air Force Wife

DEAR HELOISE:

Using old straw purses for bird houses is a grand idea. Here is another.

I removed all hinges, hardware and the sections from one of my out-of-style straw purses.

When lined with foil, a napkin or adhesive-backed paper, it makes a wonderful bread, roll, cracker or chip container to pass around at cook-out.

Martha Modugno

DEAR HELOISE:

I start boiling corn on the cob as soon as I begin my meal preparation.

When the corn is cooked, I remove it from the pot, put the ears on two thicknesses of aluminum foil, place a pat of butter on each ear and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

I then wrap the foil loosely, but securely, around the ears, shake several times and stick in the oven (set at lowest temperature).

A few minutes before I serve our meal, I remove the package from the oven, shake again and open the foil.

By the time dinner is served, the corn is slightly cooled and ready to eat—minus dripping mess and bother, and it's positively delicious. Seems to bake it tender.

Mrs. M. J. S.

That's a great idea for a crowd, too. The foil could be left on the remaining ears until ready to eat and 'twould keep it nice and hot, and keep it from shriveling up, too.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a gift-wrap idea for Father's Day.

Wrap Dad's package neatly in newspaper—preferably the sports or financial page. Then take a black crayon or marking pencil and draw a shirt and tie on the paper. Add a cut-out pocket from the newspaper with cellophane tape and slip a handkerchief with Dad's initials into the pocket.

I did this last year and it really made a hit with my Dad.

Pat Todd

DEAR HELOISE:

During the summer months when we are not using the wall heater inside our bathroom, I use it as a container for artificial ivy or maybe some bright plastic flowers.

This is really an inexpensive way to dress up the bathroom.

Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you ever have a lovely dress that looked summery, but had sleeves and was very warm?

I solved this problem by making a small machine button-hole in the seam of the dress under each arm. This offered enough ventilation, and now I am getting a lot more wear out of it.

Rose Allen

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I am not a lover of housework and my house looks more like a disaster area than a show place. However, there is one spot of beauty which I call the focal point of the living room.

Everyday I polish my coffee table with furniture polish and it shines more beautifully each day.

My idea is that people dropping in will be so dazzled, that they won't see the rest of the room!

Expect rise in wheat supports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A government forecast pointing to a record-breaking winter wheat crop for 1968 Tuesday put added pressure on administration farm officials to order a further cut in federal wheat planting allotments for 1968.

The Agriculture Department, on the heels of a price-depressing record 1967 wheat crop, had cut planting allotments 13 per cent for its 1968 program under which farmers get price support payments if they voluntarily comply with acreage controls.

Despite the cut, the department's Crop Reporting Board Monday estimated the 1968 winter wheat crop on the basis of June 1 conditions at 1,230,356,000 bushels, 2 per cent above 1967. The board said timely showers and cool weather in the central Plains had improved prospects 3 per cent over May. Several weeks earlier, department economists had warned that wheat prices could be expected to sag further unless export demand picked up in this election-year summer, and likely would average below current levels through August. The average April farm price for wheat had been the lowest of the current season.

Despite a 13 per cent cut in acreage allotments for both winter and spring wheat this year, the department estimated that harvested acreage for 1968 winter wheat would be only about 6 per cent below 1967. This drop was more than canceled by a June 1 estimate that per-acre yields would be 28.8 bushels compared with 26.6 last year.

The department made no forecast spring wheat production, though it said normal rainfall will be needed to assure average yields. Earlier, however, it said that on the basis of farmers' planting intentions, the spring crop could be about 315 million bushels, bringing total production to a record 1,545 million bushels.

The department also estimated Monday that May milk production was 11.283 billion pounds, down 2 per cent from a year ago. Egg production was estimated for May at 6,068 billion, down 1 per cent from 1967.

Peach production was estimated at 3,789 billion pounds, up 41 per cent from last year and 8 per cent above average. Late spring potatoes were estimated at 19.8 million hundredweight, 16 per cent below 1967.

Orange production was estimated at 129,300,000 boxes, a 31 per cent decline from last year, while grapefruit production was down 24 per cent.

LBJ visits Ike, Douglas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson paid sick calls Tuesday on two distinguished patients at Walter Reed Army Hospital—former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Eisenhower is recuperating from a heart attack suffered April 29 at his winter home in Palm Desert, Calif. Johnson sent his plane out to the West Coast last month to bring Eisenhower to Walter Reed.

Douglas, a physical fitness advocate and mountain climber at age 69, was reported adjusting well to a cardiac device implanted in minor surgery a week ago to speed up his heart beat.

A spokesman who disclosed Douglas had been equipped with the cardiac "pacemaker" at Walter Reed June 4 reported the jurist was doing well. He is expected to leave the hospital shortly.

Pacemakers are tiny devices which generate timed electrical impulses which stimulate the heart to beat at a normal pace. Wire electrodes carry the stimulating signals to the heart muscle. The little power required is supplied by small batteries which last a few years and can be replaced by simple surgery.

His office said that since he entered the hospital a week ago "with problems of slow heart rate," Douglas has kept abreast of court matters.

A lover, not a fighter

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Army S. Sgt. James Hasse, 21, is going back to Vietnam at the end of the month—for love, not war.

Vietnam is where his fiance, 2nd Lt. Barbara Blair, Alton, Ill., is.

The soldier, who admits he's as much lover as fighter, is home enjoying a 30-day furlough, but when it's over he says he will extend his tour of duty six months.

When the extension runs out, he says, he will extend his tour month-by-month until he can bring his fiance home next March.

Lt. Blair is a nurse, stationed at the Army hospital at Nha Trang on the central coast.

During part of his last tour, Hasse was assigned to the 5th Special Forces Group, headquartered in Nha Trang.

Cong kill 135 S. Viet civilians

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—A handful of Viet Cong firing from suburban rice paddies rocketed rush hour crowds today in their bloodiest barrage of Saigon, sending thousands of civilians into screaming panic and killing or wounding a record 135 Vietnamese.

For 10 minutes 26 six-foot 122mm rockets rained on downtown Saigon at daybreak in the 11th consecutive day of terror shelling aimed at breaking the capital's will to fight.

Panic swept the jammed streets. The shrieking of victims rose from rubble and smoke from rocket blasts that ripped buildings within two blocks of the presidential palace in the city's center.

One rocket burst into the waiting room of Dr. Dan Van Chieu. "I saw several pregnant women and children running from the building," said Bill Mykelbust of Tulare, Calif., a U.S. adviser. He heard the moans of victims buried in the ruins of the doctor's office.

Hit Officers' Billets
Explosions ripped into walls of the Rex and Splendid, two U.S. military officers' billets. Maj. Elvin Krellick of Hopkinsville, Ky., said he "just rolled off the bed when they started coming in. It was a rude awakening."

The shelling came shortly before Gen. William C. Westmoreland, ending four years' command of U.S. forces in Vietnam, left by plane for his new duties as Army chief of staff. "Good luck!" called Westmoreland to his successor, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams. Westmoreland had judged the shelling a publicity stunt, however bloody. Captured Communists said the harassment of Saigon was designed to add punch to the bargaining power of North Vietnam delegates meeting American diplomats in preliminary peace talks in Paris.

Strike Near Embassy
Today's shelling struck near the U.S. Embassy and other American buildings. One blast dug a six-foot hole in the grass five feet behind a white statue of the Virgin Mary in John F. Kennedy Square, alongside the city's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

In other developments:
—U.S. helicopter gunships and Navy patrol craft killed 44 guerrillas Monday in three Mekong Delta fights.

—U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pounded North Vietnamese bases in South Vietnam's Central Highlands today.

Cadou's column

By EUGENE J. CADOU

INDIANAPOLIS UPI
Indiana Republicans will take their first look Thursday at the party's glamour leaders, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who will address a $100-a-plate dinner here.

Reagan is undoubtedly the second choice of most of the Hoosier leaders for president if Richard M. Nixon should miss the boat.

The Indiana presidential primary bound the 26 Republican delegates to the national convention to Nixon, but it is on the first ballot only.

It is safe to say nearly all Indiana delegates will remain with Nixon for several ballots and there is little chance for Hoosier votes for his rival, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Liked For Second Spot
Buena Chaney state chairman, and the GOP state organization have been on the Nixon bandwagon for a long time but many of the Nixon backers in the state would rejoice if the Californian were nominated for vice-president. There are indications, however, that Reagan, backed by the huge California delegation, has aspirations to be the No. 1 candidate.

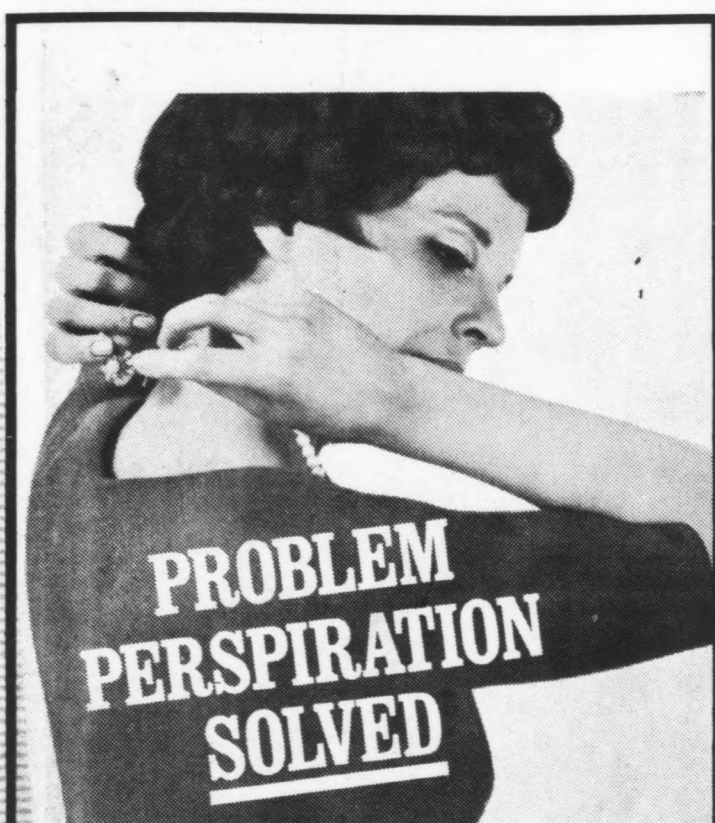

Chaney believes that nearly 2,000 Hoosiers will turn out for Reagan and thereby rejuvenate the badly-depleted Hoosier campaign chest.

Chaney contends that the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy spent nearly $2 million in the presidential primary campaign in this state in which Kennedy was first, Governor Branigan second and McCarthy third.

There's a lot of money left in the Democratic state coffers, according to Chaney, as assumption that is disputed fervently by Gordon St. Angelo, Democratic state chairman, who admits, however, that the Branigan presidential bid was financed separately from state party funds.

Scorpion order changes secret

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—A Navy communications officer revealed today that the missing nuclear submarine Scorpion was sent two changes in orders—one "highly classified"—shortly before she disappeared.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles H. Garrison, Jr., communications officer for the Atlantic Submarine Command, submitted copies of the secret orders in a 10-minute open session of a Navy court of inquiry into the loss of the submarine and her 99 man crew.

The presiding officer, Vice Adm. Bernard L. Austin, then ordered the court into closed session for further testimony on the Navy's last contact with the submarine—which has not been heard from since May 21.

Polution control progress slow

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—When the subject is progress in reducing water pollution, Indiana municipalities can hang up that motto which says: "The harder I try, the behinder I get."

Or as water pollution control expert Blucher Poole summarizes, "we are making progress but not making progress fast enough to meet our goal."

Poole is director of the Bureau of Environmental Sanitation for the State Board of Health and secretary of the Indiana Stream Pollution Control Board. Currently he is reminding all Hoosier municipalities that July 1 is the deadline to apply for federal and state grants for sewage projects for 1969.

At the same time, Poole said he does not know how much money will be available for those municipalities which apply but can only assume it will be about the same as this year.

A jess is the leather strap fastened to the leg of a hawk or a falcon, to which the leash is attached.

Garrison testified that the first message, classified "Confidential," was sent to the Scorpion May 17. There was no acknowledgment but the message was sent four times at intervals of two hours, a standard procedure for communicating with submarines at sea.

"We assume that she received the message," he said. 3 Austin then asked whether the Scorpion, which was 27 miles off her normal course when last heard from, was sent a subsequent message.

"Yes sir, this is highly classified," Garrison replied, handing over a pink slip presumably containing the Scorpion's last orders.

After hearing Garrison's testimony in closed session, the court turned to the former second-in-command of the Scorpion in its search for some clue to her fate.

Lt. Cmdr. R. R. Fountain, executive officer until late last year, was called in to testify on his experiences and knowledge of the condition of the eight-year-old submarine.

Whitcomb opponents gaining in support

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The Republican contest for governor appeared to be tightening into a close race Tuesday as Secretary of State Edgar Whitcomb's two opponents gained new support.

Earl L. Butz was endorsed by D. Russell Bontrager, veteran Republican leader who earlier was mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate but decided not to seek any nomination this year.

Bontrager, the party's 1964 nominee for U.S. Senate and a longtime state senator, said "I am confident that the delegates to the Republican state convention on June 18 will choose Earl Butz and I am equally confident that in November, the voters of Indiana will give him a mandate to provide them with four years of capable and dedicated leadership."

And at Bremen Monday night, House Speaker Otis R. Bowen, the third gubernatorial candidate, garnered heavy support from fellow legislators and bipartisan testimonials from a number of persons. South Bend Mayor Lloyd Allen, former House Speaker Richard Guthrie, Indianapolis State Sen. Will Erwin, Etna Green, and GOP county officials from Elkhart, Kosciusko and Marshall Counties were among those attending.

Butz' campaign manager, 5th District GOP chairman Paul Green, flatly predicted that the first ballot at the state convention would see the three candidates "within 150 votes of each other." He said it would take more than the first ballot—which Whitcomb's backers predicted—to determine the nominee.

Also making a mysterious appearance Tuesday was a postcard labeled "People's Slate—A Choice Not an Echo." The card bore no identification as to sender and omitted Whitcomb and the names of those candidates mentioned as having been on his "slate" following earlier meetings in Indianapolis.

However, several of the candidates named on the card said they had no knowledge of it and regretted the action as a further party division.

The number of GOP candidates for the state convention who have paid their filing fees climbed to 33 with the addition of Albert F. Harrigan, Hobart real estate dealer, as a third official candidate for auditor. Earlier, Newell S. Timmons, Monticello, filed for the office.

In addition Young Republican national vice chairman Trudy Etherton, South Bend, is expected to file Wednesday. The flood of auditor candidates came as incumbent Republican auditor John Gallagher vowed he would not drop his bid for nomination as lieutenant governor.

Vote switch to McCarthy sought

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A movement to gain "an equitable distribution" of the Indiana delegate votes to the Democratic national convention has been launched by supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who finished last in a three-man Indiana Democratic presidential primary.

The delegates were freed from legal obligation by the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who won the Indiana primary.

James A. Bogle, chairman of the McCarthy campaign in Indiana, said that although "a moratorium was declared on presidential politics after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy... we here in Indiana must again begin thinking in terms of the campaign."

Bogle said that "There is already mounted a campaign on the part of the supporters of Hubert Humphrey to deliver the Indiana delegation to the vice president. This would amount to an open refutation of the will of the majority of the Democrats in this state."

"An equitable distribution of delegates must be achieved," He said it must be "a distribution which reflects accurately" the choice of Hoosier voters as expressed in the May 7 primary. Kennedy won the primary with 42 per cent of the vote. Governor Branigin was second with 31 per cent and McCarthy third with 27 per cent.

McCarthy May Return
Bogle said that McCarthy might return to Indiana on the eve of the Democratic state convention June 21 at which time district caucuses meet, if the situation next week indicated the advisability of such a visit to some of the caucuses.

Bogle said that the officials of the Hoosiers for a Democratic Alternative and Citizens for McCarthy met Monday night here and voted to "pursue the delegate question with intensity."

Bogle said the first portion of the pursuit will be directed toward convincing the state Democratic organization that McCarthy is entitled to a portion of Indiana's 63 votes at the Aug. 26 national convention in Chicago.

He praised the second draft of the Democratic state platform which is now being considered in hearings as pleasing to "those citizens of Indiana who expressed a desire for a change in the political direction of our nation" on Vietnam, civil disorders, lowered voting age and electoral reform.

But Bogle, who is a member of the platform committee, said he felt that the tabling of Vietnam plank discussion Tuesday afternoon may be a signal that this proposed plank will not be accepted by the full committee or by the state convention.

District Support Pondered
Bogle said that if the state party officials fail to agree on allocating some of the national convention delegates to McCarthy, then the next step would be to seek support from the district caucuses June 20.

He said his own idea of an "equitable distribution" would be for each of the districts to select one delegate each from those who had supported Kennedy, Humphrey and McCarthy.

Bogle said he was considering support of Branigin as primarily being support for Humphrey.

The last position taken by the Democratic Central Committee was that 33 of the 63 delegate votes are to be picked at district caucuses June 20. However, this includes two pre-determined delegates since National Committeeman Richard Stoner is one of the 9th district delegates by these rules and National Committeewoman Katie Wolf is one of the 7th district votes. The remaining delegates are at-large and constitute certain elected Democratic officials and others nominated by Democratic state chairman Gordon St. Angelo.

Indiana has a total of 56 full delegates with one vote each and 10 delegates with one-half votes each, plus the national committeeman and woman. Branigin, former Democratic governor Matthew E. Welsh, Sens. Vance Hartke and Birch Bayh and 11 district chairmen are designated as national delegates.

However, the allocation of these delegates is subject to change at any time by the Democratic State Central Committee up to the time of final action by the state convention.

Linn trial underway

BEDFORD, Ind. (UPI)—Witnesses began giving testimony Tuesday in the first-degree murder trial of John Linn, 25, Seymour, eight weeks after jury selection began.

Linn is charged in the shooting deaths last Aug. 23 of his three children, Jerry, 5, Debra, 4, and Kathy, 2, whose bodies were found in berry bushes along a Lawrence County road.

The first witness was state police Sgt. Lawrence E. Conway, now retired, who told of Linn walking into the Seymour State Police Post after the children were slain. Conway's testimony was cut short when defense attorney Robert Skinner objected that the prosecution had not established that a crime had been committed.

State trooper Ron Miller described a search for the bodies after Linn appeared at the state police post. Prosecutor Robert Colker reserved the right to recall both witnesses.

A short recess was called a few minutes after the proceedings began Tuesday because of a power failure.

It took five weeks to seat a jury for Linn, with more than 100 prospective jurors dismissed on grounds they opposed the death penalty.

Later, Lawrence Circuit Judge Wayne Baker delayed the proceedings so he could review a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court which said a defendant cannot be given the death penalty if prospective jurors had been dismissed solely because of opposition to capital punishment.

Baker decided there was no choice but to continue the trial. He said if the jury were dismissed after being sworn in, it would be equivalent to returning a verdict of innocent.

Ogilvie victor

CHICAGO (UPI)—Richard B. Ogilvie, twice victor over the Chicago Democratic powerhouse, squeaked through to victory today in a down-to-the-wire Illinois Republican gubernatorial primary.

Ogilvie, president of the Cook County (Chicago) Board of Commissioners, needed all the Chicago power he could muster to outlast a downstate stretch drive from Peoria industrialist John Henry Altorfer.

His victory in the four-man race became apparent after Altorfer had narrowed the once-yawning gap between them to just 5 per cent of the GOP vote—46 to 41. But Ogilvie appeared sure to have enough votes to spare to win in the final tally.

The two other candidates, former Gov. William G. Stratton and attorney S. Thomas Sutton, were left far behind.

In contrast to the gubernatorial horse race, an old pro of Illinois politics, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, fairly strolled to nomination for a fourth term over token opposition.

In November, he will oppose Atty. Gen. William H. Clark, who along with Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro and the rest of the Democratic state ticket were unopposed.

Talks reopen

By GEORGE SIBERA
PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Negotiator W. Averell Harriman today entered the Vietnam War negotiations with a condemnation of indiscriminate Viet Cong terror attacks on civilians in Saigon.

"The North Vietnamese Communist Party is pursuing terrorist actions and is killing civilians without any military objective," Harriman said shortly before he entered the conference room.

Inside, he said, he would deliver a strong protest against the attacks.

On the North Vietnamese side Le Duc Tho, a high-ranking Communist party member sent by Hanoi to oversee the talks, attended the first session since his arrival two weeks ago. In the past seven sessions the Hanoi delegation chief was Xuan Thuy.

Earlier U.S. diplomats had warned the rocket and mortar attacks were pushing the talks to the verge of collapse. Some observers speculated the United States would consider a resumption of air raids in the north if the shelling did not end.

"We are gravely concerned by the Communist terror campaign," Harriman said. "We are concerned, as I am sure are all Americans."

The long range shelling of Saigon has been carried out for 12 days in a row and for 25 of the last 40 days.

Shopper's guide

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. DA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that meat and poultry and some fresh fruits and vegetables are in ample supply in food stores and supermarkets for weekend shoppers.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys again head the list as being the most abundant meats. Beef roasts and steaks and ground beef are all in the abundant class in most areas. Pork items in best supply are bacon, chops, hams, and roasts as well as smoked picnics and spareribs. Fish fillets and steaks and fish sticks and portions are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, onions, and potatoes should be abundantly available in all areas. Bananas, blueberries, cantaloupes, peaches and strawberries are the fresh fruits in best supply in most areas.

Sects riot

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Three persons were killed when police opened fire on a crowd of 600 rioting religious rivals in the town of Ghazipur, 40 miles from the Hindu holy city of Benares, officials said Tuesday. The rioting between the Shia and Sunni rival Moslem sects broke out Monday. Officials said the situation was "under control" Tuesday.

Bargain basement

Today's Best Buy in home comfort is whole-house air conditioning. But it's an even greater value when you install flameless electric heat at the same time. In addition to saving on installation costs, you'll be able to air condition for far less because of more adequate insulation and low, low total electric rates. And when winter comes, you'll be doubly glad because nothing can compare with clean, efficient electric heat.

Penny Power and the folks at Public Service Indiana can show you that by replacing your old-fashioned flame-type furnace you may even gain a basement in the bargain.

Hollywood news

By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One assumes on hearing a star admit he has a business manager that he is not bright enough to balance his checking account.

Wrong. If there's one thing most actors understand, it is money. Ask any producer.

But the supernova-type stars have so many deals cooking, their own production companies, investments and debts, they need an expert who can keep them free of becoming full time businessmen.

One such is A. Morgan Maree III. He performs an entirely different function than the agent or personal manager. The agent gets the actor jobs. The personal manager lets him know when his socks don't match or when to come in out of the rain.

The business manager keeps him solvent.

"Most big stars don't have enough time to take care of their finances," Maree explained. "They need someone to keep score, and managing money is a full time job."

"Our company is business management as well as investment counseling. And our clients are 90 per cent in the entertainment business. They are individuals who recognize they are artists and that it is not demeaning for them to be business men, too."

Maree's company was founded back in 1932 with Charles Starrett and Chester Morris the first clients. Now the organization has 100 individual clients, plus some 50 corporations.

Some stars find it difficult to convince a top financial management firm to handle their wealth, or lack of it. And with good reason.

One type spends money with the abandon of the federal government. Another is the ham juggling real estate, alimony and mortgage payments while shooting films in Spain and Yugoslavia. He's a loser going in.

Then there is the idiot star who spends every penny and rolls on into bankruptcy.

All of them can be kept out of the money. It is a verity that more and more stars have come to realize.

One more thing. Once a star is asked for money, all he need say is "see my business manager," and he is off the hook.

Extradition may be long process

By SCOTT B. BRUNS

LONDON (UPI)—Scotland Yard today hunted London contacts of the man accused of killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The search centered on persons who may have kept the 40-year-old escaped convict supplied with money before his arrest at London International Airport Saturday.

The hunt spread to Brussels and Lisbon where, according to unofficial reports, Ray may have been picking up funds funneled through a Swiss bank account.

The detectives hunted while U.S. and British government lawyers cooperated in an effort to extradite Ray to America to stand trial for the slaying of the civil rights leader in Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

U.S. Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr., leading the extradition drive, was aiming for as speedy an extradition as possible—by June 28, legal sources said. But court observers here said the process could run into a long hot summer if Ray exercises his civil rights to the extent of an appeal to the House of Lords, Britain's supreme court.

Frank Milton, London's chief magistrate, granted Ray a court-appointed lawyer, Michael Dresden. At the same 82-second hearing Monday Milton ordered Ray held until June 18 on the technical arrest charges—that of holding illegal passports and a pistol without permit when arrested at the airport.

UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Betty Moul, in the midst of helping her boss win reelection to the U.S. Senate this year, also is running a campaign of her own.

The sure winners in Miss Moul's campaign are hundreds of orphans among the victims of the Vietnam War.

Pittsburgh-born Betty Moul is private secretary to Jacob K. Javits, New York's Republican senator since 1956. The petite brunette, when she isn't shuffling the senator's appointments, handling correspondence, arranging speaking schedules and chauffeuring the senator, is out making speeches on her own to raise money for the An Lac Orphanage in Saigon.

Shifting Population
The orphanage, an arm of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation of which Miss Moul is a trustee, cares for a shifting population of about 400 children from infancy to early teens.

And where does this bundle of energy spend her vacations? In Saigon, helping the understaffed staff to feed and clothes, to give medication (malnutrition, diarrhea and tuberculosis are major illnesses), and to teach the unfortunates. Miss Moul instructs them in English and laughingly said that to the children she's become "Co My," their way of calling her "Miss America."

She pays her own way to South Vietnam and admitted that she scrimps on her salary—"bring my own lunch... buy all my clothes on sale." She has worked out with the senator a schedule that permits her to spend close to two months every other year at An Lac. She takes the vacation due her one year in December and then backs the one due for the following year right against it. Quit Steel Company

Miss Moul came to New York in 1959, transferred by her employer, U.S. Steel, but left in 1963 to work for the senator. She became interested in Dooley's work in Southeast Asia when she read "Give Joy to My Youth," a biography by Teresa Gallagher, an officer also of the foundation.

Miss Moul recalled that Dooley already was hospitalized for the cancer that killed him in 1961. "But I called him and said, 'My name is Betty Moul, I work for U.S. Steel and I can type.'"

Miss Moul prefers not to discuss the "politics" of the U.S. role in Vietnam, although as a senator's secretary she is surrounded by it. Rather, she talks of numerous ways U.S. military personnel volunteer to help the South Vietnamese.

Medics give medical aid, others teach, and, "a bunch of Marine guards at the embassy used one of their days off to come over and repaint the entire orphanage," she said.

On the lighter side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A hospital patient recently was sitting up in bed preparing to swallow a capsule approximately the size of a jelly bean when

McGraw Returns

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Character actor Charles McGraw, who played a small role in "In Cold Blood," will return to Columbia to a featured role in "Pendulum," starring George Peppard and Jean Seberg.

he chanced to notice something was printed on it.

Closeup scrutiny revealed that it and some of his other capsules bore either a trade name or the name of the manufacturer.

At first, the patient was somewhat perturbed by the thought of having miniature drug commercials sloshing around among his gullets.

But after reflecting upon the matter for a spell (hospital patients usually devote a good bit of time to reflecting), he concluded that the imprints must have some kind of therapeutic value. Why else would they appear on the capsules?

I haven't checked this out with the Food and Drug Administration, but it seems to me to be a logical deduction.

The body is to some extent conditioned by the mind, and our minds are constantly being exposed to brand names in drug commercials.

It therefore stands to reason that if a medical brand name comes in direct contact with some malfunctioning internal organ, the results will be beneficial.

In writing to me of this matter, the patient did not identify the nature of his illness. Apparently, however, he had a bad case of something.

At any rate, he felt he would have been more greatly benefited if the capsules had carried another type of inscription.

"If these pills, capsules, et al had upon them some spiritual message (the larger ones could have the Lord's Prayer or the Apostles' Creed), they could be of more value," he wrote.

For less serious cases, where secular treatment will suffice, the patient suggested that capsules be imprinted with "get well" messages.

"Get well cards as now designed go no deeper than the skin," he noted.

While these may cheer the patient up on the outside, they fail to bring any inward comfort, being unable to reach the trouble spots.

I suppose such a plan might work, but a physician would need to exercise extreme caution in prescribing messages that are taken internally.

Some of them can cause harmful side effects.

Washington window

By MERRIMAN SMITH

UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: After the urban violence of late last summer and the 1967 youth demonstrations against the draft and Vietnam, it became increasingly apparent to some key government officials that 1968 would be a bad year for conventional political campaigning.

During the winter there seemed to be so much unrest and dissent against established authority, it was the considered judgment of these officials that conventional campaigning by President Johnson or any of the major candidates would be all but impossible without major risk.

Private Talks

This came up at time in private conversations with the Chief Executive. For a time, he maintained he would be able to go anywhere in America; that he was not about to become a frightened prisoner of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

But still he gave the matter some deep personal thought and it was in this somewhat introspective consideration of the problem that he started talking to congressional leaders about legislative authority to give the candidates Secret Service protection.

Anyone familiar with capabilities of the Secret Service knows, however, that totally effective protection of any public figure simply does not exist if the figure insists on exposing himself to danger by mingling freely with crowds; by moving about in open automobiles and by speaking to mass audiences in locations where airtight crowd control is impossible.

Reject Protection

Candidates as a general rule are so prone to dismiss the possibility of ugly crowd consequences that they reject local police protection even when it is available.

There was a sharp shift in candidate opinion on the subject of personal safety after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was killed in Los Angeles. The New York Democrat might possibly be alive today had he availed himself of the protective services of a squad of well-armed, crowd-wise Los Angeles city detectives. In any case, his chances of avoiding a murderous hall of bullets would have been better.

Even before the Kennedy tragedy in Los Angeles, Johnson was becoming increasingly security conscious. This can be expected to continue for this Chief Executive is determined to leave office alive.

Sorbonne siege bloody

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI)—Riot police Tuesday conducted a three-hour siege of Sorbonne University where 4,000 students holed up after a night of bloody rioting in the Latin Quarter. Police tear gas and concussion grenades shattered windows and splattered walls of the Sorbonne facade and students hurled back molotov cocktails.

Students, five seriously. Police broke off the siege three hours after dawn but remained on the alert nearby in blue riot squad cars.

The new rioting broke out in strife-torn France Monday night as students took to the Latin Quarter's streets to protest the drowning of a demonstrator.

"They have killed our comrades!" the students screamed as they hurled paving stones and molotov cocktails, set fire to vehicles and built barricades.

Helmeted police charged eight to 10 deep, swinging their clubs from behind shields, and smashed through the barricades with a bulldozer.

Dozens of students and 26 police were injured in the running fights and 22 students were arrested before the demonstrators retreated into the Sorbonne.

The students called for new street demonstrations tonight.

The new rioting—first in two weeks—came as France officially opened the election campaign that will decide the fate of the government of President Charles de Gaulle. The aging president called the elections for June 23-30 after last month's student rioting mushroomed into the worst general strike in French history and demands for De Gaulle's ouster.

The strike movement continued its slow death today. Fewer than one million of the 10 million workers who walked off the job still were idle. About 100,000 aeronautical industry workers returned to their plants this morning.

The new riots came after a youth, not identified, drowned in the Seine River while running away with a crowd of other students Monday afternoon from a rally at Meulan near Paris. The youth either jumped or was pushed into the river. Police broke up the pro-Chinese Communist rally attended by several hundred.

Foreign news commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Italy, a leading Communist described the demonstrations there as "extremism infantile."

In other words and for different reasons what happened in France, where workers and Communists joined with the students to threaten not only the De Gaulle government but the French economy as well, is most unlikely to happen in either Germany or Italy.

In Rome, Giorgio Amendola, a member of the Communist party's steering committee and of the central committee, made it clear in his party's weekly magazine that he considered the student revolutionaries amateurish and their call to the barricades a danger to his own party's fight against capitalism.

He asked specifically that the Communists refute the ideas of Prof. Herbert Marcuse, an idol of the student revolt who holds that the principal adversary is the industrial society whether it be capitalist or socialist. Marcuse is a teacher at the University of California at San Diego.

In Germany, it's a different kettle of fish.

The German worker enjoys his present economic status and is unwilling to see it changed.

He supports close ties with the United States, with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and with the European Common Market.

He sees no tie between himself and the student demonstrators who would destroy the status quo and the parliamentary system by violent demonstrations.

Workers and most other Germans have been shocked by the student violence, their advocacy of totalitarianism, and their intolerant refusal to debate issues with those who disagree with them.

Hanoi tries novel ploy

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnamese diplomats charged Tuesday that "gun merchants" with financial interests in the Vietnam war may have conspired in "a plot" to eliminate Sen. Robert F. Kennedy because he was a peace candidate.

The Communist envoys admitted to newsmen they had no proof for their assertions.

The Hanoi diplomats engaged in preliminary talks with the United States have refused official comment on the assassination, contending it was an "internal American matter." But in private they admitted shock.

"The United States has been exporting violence for years," a high-ranking North Vietnamese delegate said. "Now it is reaping violence at home which has boomeranged."

North Vietnamese sources indicated their delegation would make no concessions in forthcoming meetings with W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's special ambassador. They said their instructions were the same as at the first meeting May 13—demand an immediate and unconditional halt to U.S. bombing.

The North Vietnamese sources said they would refuse any concessions to start substantive bargaining even if President Johnson ordered a temporary halt to the bombing.

The next negotiations session was scheduled for Wednesday.

Harriman flew in Monday night from Washington following the burial of Kennedy. Harriman said he was not prepared to give in to the Hanoi demands.

Vengeance slaying suspect nabbed

CHICAGO (UPI)—A Negro service station attendant was arrested and charged with murder Monday in the fatal shooting of a Jordanian grocer, believed slain by avengers of the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Aaron Myers, 19, one of two suspects in the Saturday night pistol slaying of Abder Rayyan, 55, was arrested before dawn at the South Side station where he worked, police said. He was charged, put in jail and was to appear at a felony court hearing later Monday.

It was rumored that Rayyan said after Kennedy's slaying in Los Angeles last week that he "should have been dead long ago." Police, however, could not confirm the rumor, and friends and relatives of the victim said it was not true.

Rayyan's former wife, a Negro who practices Islam, attended a wake for the grocer Sunday night. She said if her former husband was, indeed, murdered to avenge the death of the New York Democrat and presidential candidate, whose accused slayer is a native of Jordan, the killer had been badly mistaken.

According to witnesses in the store, including Rayyan's daughter, Zuhda, 22, the two Negroes walked into the store, walked past the cash registers to the vegetable bin where Rayyan was standing and shot him twice, once in the head behind the ear, simulating the fatal wound to Kennedy.

The assailants then ran out of the store and halfway down the street to a car with other youths in it. The car sped away.

Patrolman Howard M. Smetts said, "as far as could be determined, there was no robbery attempt. There were no words exchanged."

Heart transplant patients in high spirits

HOUSTON (UPI)—Everett C. Thomas and Louis J. Fierro, a couple of poker cronies who also happen to be two of the world's six heart transplant survivors, laughed and joked with newsmen today at St. Luke's Hospital and said they felt "like a million."

"I got more than a heart out of this situation," said Thomas, a 47-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., accountant who has survived with a transplanted heart since May 3. "I got a renewal of my faith and a solidification of my life."

Fierro, an Elmont, N.Y., car salesman who received his new heart May 22, said he was "eating like a demon and exercising regularly."

"When I came here I couldn't walk four or five steps," Fierro said. "Today I'm up and around and ready for the old New York ballroom dancing."

Thomas and Fierro, who walk out of their adjoining rooms to chat or play poker daily, were dressed in sports shirts, slacks and "hard hats" presented by a construction crew working on a remodeling job at the hospital.

Tears welling in his eyes, Thomas said that when he was released, he intended to go back to Phoenix and visit young cardiac patients to tell them about his experience.

He said it took him "about 10 minutes" to make up his mind to undergo the transplant, despite the discouraging statistical odds so far against long-term survival.

"Just because you have a blowout on your car doesn't mean I'll have one," he said. Thomas said he had no feeling of strangeness about his new heart.

"It's like I have my own heart," he said.

He said he had been so conscious of his heart through a long 24-year history of rheumatic fever that "When I awoke (after the operation) I didn't know I had a heart in there ticking. For 24 years, I could feel it in there, pumping."

Fierro said he was feeling so good he had been trying to pick up some of the ballroom dance steps he used to do before his illness, while Thomas and the nurses sang, "When the Saints go Marching In."

A lifelong poker player, Fierro said he and Thomas play seven-card stud.

"I got a five-heart flush the first day out," he said. "I

Suitor is leader

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Defending champion Rick Suitor of LaPorte played even-par golf Tuesday to score two easy victories in opening rounds of the Indiana Junior Golf championship.

Suitor was a 6 and 4 winner in the morning round over Bob Spacey of Greenfield and took Larry Schmalzfeldt, Indianapolis, 5 and 4 in the afternoon.

Suitor hit 10 greens in each of his 14-hole matches and did not three-putt at all. Suitor played two-under par for the first nine holes of his morning match.

Qualifying medalist Jim Brockman of Franklin bit the dust in his first match Tuesday, dropping a 4 and 3 decision to David Campbell, Indianapolis, who was one over par for 15 holes. Brockman, playing against doctor's orders with strained chest muscles, never led.

Tim Johnson, Warsaw, another of the favorites, won both of his matches Tuesday, as did two other favorites, Frank Zoeller, New Albany, and Ken Frandsen, Lebanon.

Johnson defeated Larry Harmon, Corydon, 4 and 3, then took Jim Atkins, Mount Vernon, 6 and 5, shooting even par golf in the afternoon match. Zoeller beat Don Hunt, Lafayette, 5 and 3, then stopped Terry Skaggs, Martinsville, 2 and 1, playing the final eight holes one under par.

Frandsen eliminated Chris

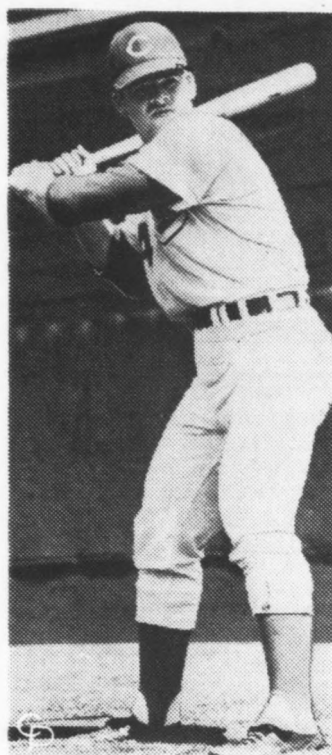

Shelby, Lebanon, 4 and 3, and beat Mike Roberts, Madison Heights, 4 and 3. Roberts was a member of this year's state high school championship golf team.

Rain halted play about 45 minutes at mid-day Tuesday.

Sixteen golfers remained alive in the championship flight as play resumed today over the Purdue course. Originally, 202 started qualifying Monday with 64 making the championship flight.

Rusty Staub has class—both on and off the field.

Sunday, for Staub was a time to mourn, and Tuesday was a time to play again. He did both things with equal grace.

Staub, who was fined a day's pay—about $250—by Houston for sitting out Sunday's game in deference to the memory of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, made a spectacular return to the Astros' lineup Tuesday night. He stroked a two-run double to climax a five-run second inning which lifted the Astros to a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

General Manager Spec Richardson of the Astros had ordered the team to play Sunday despite the protest of the players, claiming, "Kennedy would have wanted us to play."

But on Tuesday, both Staub and teammate Bob Aspromonte, who also refused to play, received telegrams from Kennedy's press secretary, Frank Mankiewicz, which thanked them for their public display of sympathy. Milt Pappas of the Reds, just traded to the Braves, Maury Wills of the Pirates and the New York Mets received telegrams, too.

Message Commands Action

The telegram said, "Please accept my personal admiration for your actions. Senator Kennedy indeed competitive sports but I doubt that he would have put box-office receipts ahead of national mourning under any circumstances."

After Tuesday night's game, Staub said, "I was pleased and honored today to receive the telegram from the Kennedys."

"I loved that man and that family and felt very deep in here (he tapped his heart) about it. I have received calls and gotten letters from all over the country, it is very gratifying."

He concluded, "I just went out there to play ball today, it's all over."

Little League Results

The Giants had an easy time with the Cardinals winning by a 11 - 1 score. Giant pitching combined for a one-hit game.

John Hughes had a great day at the bat and pitched also to lead the Indians to a 15 to 13 victory over the Yankees. Hughes had 2 doubles and 2 home runs and drove in 9 runs. In addition Hughes struck out 8 batters in 4 innings.

Hanoi defends stand in S. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—Hanoi has compared the Vietnam War with the American revolution against Britain in defending the right of North Vietnamese to fight "on the whole territory of Vietnam," a North Vietnamese newspaper reported Tuesday.

But like the North Vietnamese delegation at the Paris talks, the official newspaper Nhan Dan stopped short of admitting North Vietnam has troops fighting in the south.

"The fight of the entire Vietnamese people throughout the territory of Vietnam is their obligation and sacred right," the newspaper said in an editorial broadcast by Hanoi Radio and monitored here Monday night.

The commentator, using the American revolution for comparison, said:

"In that war, when the British used loyalists to massacre Americans in New York

Denounce plans

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Opposition parties to Sweden's Social Democratic government Tuesday denounced the government's plans to socialize drug stores throughout Sweden. Conservative leader Goesta Bohman said the plan was a "reactionary Communist proposal." Economics minister Krister Wickman, who announced the plan Monday, said it would provide cheaper drugs in Sweden.

York and Carolina, an inseparable part of the struggle for the liberation of the United States of America?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

LITTLE NANCY, rummaging around in the attic, came upon her dad's old dogtags from his day in World War II. Her mother explained to her what they were and let her wear them to school. There she proudly displayed them to her chum. "These belonged to my daddy," she boasted. "He used to wear them when he was a dog!"

The week's medal for savoir-faire is hereby awarded to the neatly dressed lady in a subway train who calmly opened her pocketbook, extracted a cold fried chicken leg, and munched the meat thereon with evident satisfaction. People sitting opposite her wondered how she was going to dispose of the bare bone. They did not have long to wait. A gentleman at her immediate left was engrossed in his evening newspaper. Very gently, our heroine, slipped the bone into the pocket of his overcoat—and unconcerned left the train at the next station.

Just too early

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—John "Jake" Flowers, 31, Mount Prospect, Ill., was about 24 hours too early for his own good Monday when he sank a hole-in-one during a practice round for the Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament.

Harrah's, a casino-resort, is offering an $18,000 Rolls Royce automobile for any hole-in-one scored during tournament play. The tournament began today.

Skirts too 'mini'

DURHAM, England (UPI)—The miniskirted lassies at Durham University say the low-down on the university coffee machine is that it is too low down.

They demanded that the machine be raised at least 18 inches to spare them the embarrassment they now suffer when they have to bend over to get a cup of coffee out of the machine.

contagious phenomenon? And to the extent that it is, are there ways to reduce the contagion?

An immediate response came from CBS President Frank Stanton, who pledged cooperation "in every way possible" and added:

"As an initial step, although the integrity of the creative process will be fully respected, programming executives of the CBS Television Network will immediately undertake individual conferences with producers and writers to discuss specific measures to de-emphasize violence in programs now in production."

Stanton said: "CBS shares the President's concern as to the possible effect of the content of television entertainment programs upon the nature of our society

"We believe, however, that it may take a considerable length of time to determine whether there is a causal relationship between the fictional portrayal of violence in the mass media and any increase of actual violence in American life.

Nevertheless, we are examining our policies and practices in this entire area."

Eliminates Violent Scenes
The daily trade paper "Variety," said the producers of NBC-TV's "Get Smart" series "are stripping all scenes with violence from scripts for next season."

And movie Director Jerry Paris, who formerly guided episodes of CBS-TV's Dick Van Dyke series, took out a full-page trade paper advertisement saying:

"In the name of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy and my family, I make this solemn pledge:

"I will no longer lend my talents in any way to add to the creation of a climate for murder. I call upon all who read this to join me in refusing to write, direct, produce, act, or participate in any way in the shaping of any 'entertainment' that celebrates senseless brutality, aimless cruelty, pointless and violent death . . . if you agree with me, let me hear from you. None of us knows where this will stop. But we can make a beginning in the stopping. Together we can change the climate."

Ray travel reports vary

LONDON (UPI) — Newsmen trying to pierce a strict information blackout have come up with conflicting reports on the whereabouts of James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Martin Luther King Jr., before this arrest in London Saturday.

British officials, never garrulous about cases pending before the courts, have done nothing to clear up the confusion.

American officials, fearful that a misplaced word now could lead the U.S. Supreme Court later to throw out a Ray conviction after a two-continent search and a lengthy extradition battle, refused to comment.

Two Versions
Two main versions of Ray's recent movements circulated in London:

—The fugitive flew to Lisbon twice since arriving in London early in May. He arrived back at London's Heathrow Airport the second time at 6:10 a.m. Saturday to take a connecting flight to Brussels. He was apprehended as he walked into the airport transit lounge, and arrested on charges of carrying an unlicensed pistol ammunition and a "forged" passport.

—Ray flew to Lisbon once, had been back in London for about three weeks when he decided to go to Brussels Saturday either to join a mercenary unit or to collect money from an account allegedly opened for his use in a Swiss bank.

Reliable sources close to the police furnished the first version within minutes after Ray's arrest was first announced. It was also given abroad and continued to be supplied by U.S. sources after local evidence to the contrary appeared here.

Then reports began circulating in London that Ray had been here through at least Thursday. This led to speculation that Ray's second trip to Lisbon had been brief, but that he had still been picked up on his return from Portugal, as earlier reported.

Then British newsmen unearthed the testimony of a London hotel owner, Mrs. Anna Thomas, that she had talked with "Raymond Sneyd" the morning of his capture when he checked out of her hotel, The Pax, in London's run-down Pimlico district.

Wouldn't Sign
Mrs. Thomas said Ray "refused to sign the register, but told me his name was Sneyd," the name given on his Canadian passport.

Her description of "Sneyd's" physical appearance was hazy, but her reports of his behavior — locking himself in his room complaining of a "headache" — appeared to match up with that of a man on the run.

London police were reported to have the addresses of three other hotels where Ray stayed — at least one of them during the period when he was thought to have been on a second visit to Portugal.

But the clerk at this second hotel would make no comment except to say police had already picked up the hotel's registration records.

Confirm Doubts
Today doubts about the original arrest report from police sources were confirmed. It was reliably learned that Ray had not arrived back in London the day of his arrest but had gone to the airport merely to take a flight to Brussels.

How did he get caught in a transit lounge?

The London Daily Telegraph said he wandered in by mistake while looking for his Brussels flight, showed his passport, and was arrested by a detective standing nearby who recognized the alias Sneyd as that of a fugitive.

Officials refused to confirm this version. It was believed that the details were not exactly correct. But the news blackout continued. No alternative explanation was offered.

--Heart transplants played cards every Friday night of my life and I never did that."

Fierro said he wanted to get out and play a round of golf and Thomas said he was ready for a fishing trip whenever he got out.

But neither man said he would be upset if he had to stay at the hospital longer.

"When I first woke up, I thought, 'I'm alive and the operation is a success,'" Thomas said. "I'll go home when the doctor says I go. I'll stay as long as he wants."

Thomas has lived longer with a transplanted heart than anyone in history except Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the retired South African dentist who underwent surgery last Jan. 2. Blaiberg suffered a relapse this week and doctors in Cape Town were concerned about his condition.

The other surviving transplant patients are Frederick West, 45, a London businessman; the Rev. Jean-Marie Boulogne, a French priest, and Joao Ferreira Da Cunha, 23, a Brazilian cowboy.

Campaign against United States

PRAGUE (UPI)—The "U.S. Campaign Against the American War in Vietnam" today donated $1,250 to the Vietnam National Liberation Front to help it "resist U.S. aggression."

Five young Americans who study in West Berlin, made the presentation to Van Thang Chuong, the local representative of the NLF, at a news conference as token of their "unconditional support."

The money was raised by an auction of about 135 pictures by American, West German and British painters in West Berlin last month.

The "U.S. Campaign" describes itself as an organization of American citizens living in West Berlin "opposed to the criminal aggression by the United States government against the people of Vietnam."

At the conference, David Bathrick of Chicago, the spokesman of the group, attacked the U.S. government, charging it with "aggressive acts not only in Vietnam, but also in South America and with supporting dictatorial regimes and the ruthless oppression of U.S. citizens of black, Indian and Mexican descent."

The other members of the group were identified as Carol Eiler, of Wabash, Ind., Frank Domurad, of Burbank, Calif., Danga Vileisi, of Milford, Del., and Ronald Chavers, of Urbana, Ohio.

"I DIDN'T do it for nothing!" shouts Valerie Solanas, 28, at the onlookers as she is taken to arraignment in the shooting of "pop" artist and "underground" moviemaker Andy Warhol in New York.

To receive honors

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Capt. William L. McGonagle, former commander of the U.S. intelligence ship Liberty, was awarded the Medal of Honor today for "saving the lives of many of his crew and for saving his ship" during a surprise attack in the Mediterranean a year ago.

Navy Secretary Paul R. Ignatius, who presented the medal to McGonagle in ceremonies at the Washington Navy Yard, praised him for maintaining command of the Liberty for 17 hours despite serious wounds received early in the attack by Israeli jets and torpedo boats.

The Navy said the crew of the Liberty would also receive a Presidential unit citation at 10 a.m. Friday.
